Report on

World Nature Conservation Day

Date: 28th July 2022

World Nature Conservation Day is observed on 28th July, every year, to acknowledge a healthy environment, as the foundation for a stable and healthy society. The theme for 2022 was “Forests and Livelihoods: Sustaining People and Planet”. To generate awareness among students and staff members, Department of Botany, at Faculty of Science, celebrated World Nature Conservation Day, on 28th July 2022. The program involved an Invited Talk by Dr. Falguni Sheth, Assistant Professor, Government Science College, Bhilad. The topic for discussion was “Awareness Program on Biodiversity and Need for its conservation”.

The program started at 11:15 a.m., with formal inauguration including Lamp lighting by Resource person along with Dr. Prakash R. Patel, Dr. Sureshkumar Chavda and Dr. Sony Amarendra. Dr. Falguni Sheth was given floral welcome by the event coordinator. A brief introduction about the eminent speaker was given by Aparna Tailor. The session began with discussion of what is environment and its need for conservation, amongst students of B. Sc. Semester III and V and staff members, wherein students put forward their views about how can we help at our end to conserve the nature. Dr. Falguni Sheth, the Resource Person, then continued the talk and very candidly explained about various components of nature and how the short-sightedness of mankind has affected the environment and damaged it. Madam also discussed about the components of environment in detail, including soil, water, air and energy and made the audience focused about its conservation. She also truthfully focused on proper management of the resources, to save them for future generations. The talk ended at 1:15 pm. Total of 91 students and 10 staff members were involved in the event. The Invited talk then ended with formal vote of thanks delivered by Dr. Prakash R. Patel, Event Coordinator.

The students of B. Sc. Semester V were then involved in implanting the earthen nests on trees inside the campus. Total of 20 nests were implanted by students of B. Sc. Semester V Botany and Microbiology students, with the help of Dr. Prakash R. Patel, Dr. Ram Joshi, Shri Ugesh Mahla, Shri Niteesh Beej, Smt. Sangeeta Parmar and Kum. Vimal B. Marge. Implanting nests to birds in monsoon is a small contribution by Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam Govt. college family to conserve the biodiversity, and in turn, nature. The program finally ended at 1:50 pm. The event coordinator extended thanks to all the staff members and students for making this event success. Department of Botany, Faculty of Sciences, also acknowledges kind cooperation of Principal Sir, Dr. Bhagwanjee Jha, for giving kind permission to conduct this program. We are also thankful to the office staff for providing their kind help at every point to make this event successful.
